The INDIAN DRUM

CHAPTER XX

The Fate of the Miwaka.

"...this isn't your house, Judah?"

"No, Alan; this is an Indian's house, ... is not mine. It is Adam Enos' ... He and his wife went some... when you needed this."

"...belonged to bring me here, then?"

"No, Alan. They were alone, here—... Adam's wife. When she found ... brought you here—more than ... along the beach. Two women!"

Alan choked as he put down the little porcupine quill box which had started his line of inquiry. Whatever question he had asked Judah or Sherrill these last few days had brought him very quickly back to her. Moved by some intuitive certainty regarding Spearman, she had come north; she had not thought of peril to herself; she had struggled alone across dangerous ice in storm—a girl brought up as she had been! She had found him—Alan—with life almost extinct—upon the beach; she and the Indian woman, Wassaquam had just said—had brought him along the shore. How had they managed that, he wondered. His throat closed up, and his eyes filled as he thought of this.

In the week during which he had been cared for here, Alan had not seen Constance; but there had been a peculiar and exciting alteration in Sherrill's manner toward him, he had felt; it was something more than merely liking for him that Sherrill had showed, and Sherrill had spoken of her to him as Constance, not, as he had called her always before, "Miss Sherrill," or "my daughter." Alan had had dreams which had seemed impossible of fulfilment, of dedicating his life and all that he could make of it to her; now Sherrill's manner had brought to him something like awe, as of something quite incredible.

He turned to the Indian.

"Has anything more been heard of Spearman, Judah?"

"Only this, Alan; he crossed the straits the next day upon the ferry there. In Mackinaw City he bought liquor at a bar and took it with him; he asked there about trains into the northwest. He has gone, leaving all he had. What else could he do?"

Alan crossed the little cabin and looked out the window over the snow-covered slope, where the bright sun was shining. Snow had covered any tracks that there had been upon the beach where those who had been in the boat with him had been found dead. He had known that this must be; he had believed them beyond aid when he had tried for the shore to summon help for them and for himself. The other boat, which had carried survivors of the wreck, blown farther to the south, had been able to gain the shore of North Fox Island; and as these men had not been so long exposed before they were brought to shelter, four men lived. Sherrill had told him their names; they were the mate, the assistant engineer, a deckhand and Father Perron, the priest who had been a passenger but who had stayed with the crew till the last. Benjamin Corvet had perished in the wreckage of the cars.

As Alan went back to his chair, the Indian watched him and seemed not displeased.

"You feel good, now, Alan?" Wassaquam asked.

"Almost like myself, Judah."

"That is right, then. It was thought you would be like that today. A sled is coming soon, now."

"We're going to leave here, Judah?"

"Yes, Alan."

"And be going to see her, then? Excitement stirred him, and he turned to Wassaquam to ask that; but suddenly he hesitated and did not inquire.

Wassaquam brought the mackinaw coat which Alan had worn on Number 25; he took from the bed the new leggins which had been furnished by Sherrill. They waited until a farmer appeared driving a team hitched to a long, low-runnered sled. The Indian helped Alan on the sled, and they started.

They traveled south along the shore, passed into Little Traverse bay, and the harbor of Harbor Point appeared among the pines. The sled proceeded ... the edge of the bay to the ... even before leaving the bay ... Alan saw Constance and her father ... walking at the water ... the railway station, and ... on the ice as they recognized the occupants of the sled.

Alan felt himself alternately weak and strong as he saw her. ... encountered, and hers ... suddenly shyness, which ... fear leaping, had come over ... He wanted to speak to her, to ... some recognition to her of what ... but he did not dare to ... voice, and she seemed to understand that. He turned to Sherrill ... An engine and tender coupled ... single car stood at the railway ...

"...going to Chicago?" he inquired of Sherrill.

"...Alan—to St. Ignace. Father Perron—the priest, you know—... St. Ignace as soon as he recovers ... exposure. He sent word ... he wished to see me at my ... I told him that we would ... him as soon as you were able."

"He sent no other word than that?"

"Only that he had a very grave communication to make to us."

Alan did not ask more; at mention of Father Perron he had seemed to feel himself once more among the crashing, charging freight cars on the ferry and to see Benjamin Corvet, pinned amid the wreckage and speaking into the ear of the priest.

* * * * * * * *

It was not merely a confessional which Father Perron had taken from the lips of the dying man on Number 25; it was an accusation of crime against another man as well; and the confession and accusation both had been made, not only to gain forgiveness from God, but to right terrible wrongs. If the confession left some things unexplained, it did not lack confirmation; the priest had learned enough to be certain that it was no hallucination of madness. He had been charged definitely to repeat what had been told him to the persons he was now going to meet; so he watched expectantly upon the railway station platform at St. Ignace. A tall, handsome man whom Father Perron thought must be the Mr. Sherrill with whom he had communicated appeared upon the car platform; the young man from Number 25 followed him, and the two helped down a young and beautiful girl.

They recognized the priest by his dress and came toward him at once.

"Mr. Sherrill?" Father Perron inquired.

Sherrill assented, taking the priest's hand and introducing his daughter.

"I am glad to see you safe, Mr. Stafford." The priest had turned to Alan. "We have thanks to offer up for that, you and I!"

"I am his son, then! I thought that must be so."

Alan trembled at the priest's sign of confirmation. There was no shock of surprise in this; he had suspected ever since August, when Captain Stafford's watch and the wedding ring had so strangely come to Constance, that he might be Stafford's son. He looked at Constance, as they followed the priest to the motor which was waiting to take them to the house of old Father Benitot, whose guest Father Perron was; she was very quiet. What would that grave statement which Father Perron was to make to them mean to him—to Alan? Would further knowledge about that father whom he had not known, but whose blood was his and whose name he now must bear, bring pride or shame to him?

A bell was tolling somewhere, as they followed the priest into Father Benitot's small, bare room which had been prepared for their interview. Father Perron went to a desk and took therefrom some notes which he had made.

"What I have," he said, speaking more particularly to Sherrill, "is the terrible, not fully coherent statement of a dying man. It has given me names—also it has given me facts. But isolated. It does not give what came before or what came after; therefore, it does not make plain. I hope that, as Benjamin Corvet's partner, you can furnish what I lack."

"What is it you want to know?" Sherrill asked.

"What were the relations between Benjamin Corvet and Captain Stafford?"

Sherrill thought a moment.

"Corvet," he replied, "was a very able man; he had insight and mental grasp—and he had the fault which sometimes goes with those, a hesitancy of action. Stafford was an able man, too, considerably younger than Corvet. Twenty years ago, when the conflict of competing interests was at its height, Corvet was the head of one line, Stafford was head of another, and the two lines had very much the same connections and competed for the same cargoes."

"I begin to see!" Father Perron exclaimed. "Please go on."

"In the early nineties both lines still were young; Stafford had, I believe, two ships; Corvet had three."

"So few? Yes; it grows plainer!"

"In 1894, Stafford managed a stroke which, if fate had not intervened, must have assured the ultimate extinction of Corvet's line or its absorption into Stafford's. Stafford gained as his partner Franklin Ramsdell, a wealthy man whom he had convinced that the lake traffic offered chances of great profit; and this connection supplied him with the capital whose lack had been hampering him, as it was still hampering Corvet. The new firm—Stafford and Ramsdell—projected the construction, with Ramsdell's money, of a number of great steel freighters. The first of these—the Miwaka, a test ship whose experience was to guide them in the construction of the rest—was launched in the fall of 1895, and was lost on its maiden trip with both Stafford and Ramsdell aboard. The Stafford and Ramsdell interests could not survive the death of both owners and disappeared from the lakes. Is this what you wanted to know?"

The priest nodded. Alan leaned tensely forward, watching; what he had heard seemed to have increased and deepened the priest's feeling over what he had to tell and to have aided his comprehension of it.

"His name was Caleb Stafford," Father Perron began. "(This is what Benjamin Corvet told to me when he was dying under the wreckage on the ferry.) 'He was as fair and able a man as the lakes ever knew. I had my will of most men in the lake trade in those days; but I could not have my will of him. With all the lakes to trade in, he had to pick out for his that traffic which I already had chosen for my own. But I fought him fair, Father—I fought him fair, and I would have continued to do that to the end.

"'I was at Manistee, Father, in the end of the season—December fifth of 1895. The ice had begun to form very early that year and was already bad; there was cold and a high gale. I had laid up one of my ships at Manistee, and I was crossing that night upon a tug to Manitowoc, where another was to be laid up. I had still a third one loading up on the northern peninsula at Manistique for a last trip which, if it could be made, would mean a good profit from a season which so far, because of Stafford's competition, had been only fair. After leaving Manistee, it grew still more cold, and I was afraid the ice would close in on her and keep her where she was, so I determined to go north that night and see that she got out. None knew, Father, except those aboard the tug, that I had made that change.

"'At midnight, Father, to westward of the Foxes, we heard the four blasts of a steamer in distress—the four long blasts which have sounded in my soul ever since! We turned toward where we saw the steamer's lights; we went nearer and, Father, it was his great ship—the Miwaka! We had heard two days before that she had passed the Soo; we had not known more than that of where she was. She had broken her new shaft, Father, and was intact except for that, but helpless in the rising sea . . .'"

The priest broke off. "The Miwaka! I did not understand all that that had meant to him until just now—the new ship of the rival line, whose building meant for him failure and defeat!

"There is no higher duty than the rescue of those in peril at sea. He—Benjamin Corvet, who told me this—swore to me that, at the beginning none upon the tug had any thought except to give aid. A small line was drifted down to the tug and to this a hawser was attached which they hauled aboard. There happened then the first of those events which led those upon the tug into doing a great wrong. He—Benjamin Corvet—had taken charge of the wheel of the tug; three men were handling the hawser in ice and washing water at the stern. The whistle accidentally blew, which those on the Miwaka understood to mean that the hawser had been secured, so they drew in the slack; the hawser, tightened unexpectedly by the pitching of the sea, caught and crushed the captain and deckhand of the tug and threw them into the sea.

"Because they were short-handed now upon the tug, and also because consultation was necessary over what was to be done, the young owner of the Miwaka, Captain Stafford, came down the hawser onto the tug after the line had been put straight. He came to the wheelhouse, where Benjamin Corvet was, and they consulted. Then Benjamin Corvet learned that the other owner was aboard the new ship as well—Ramsdell—the man whose money you have just told me had built this and was soon to build other ships. I did not understand before why learning that affected him so much.

"'Stafford wanted us' (this is what Benjamin Corvet said) 'to tow him up the lake; I would not do that, but I agreed to tow him to Manistique. The night was dark, Father—no snow, but frightful wind which had been increasing until it now sent the waves washing clear across the tug. We had gone north an hour when, low upon the water to my right, I saw a light, and there came to me the whistling of a buoy which told me that we were passing nearer than I would have wished, even in daytime, to windward of Boulder reef. There are, Father, no people on that reef; its sides of ragged rock go straight down forty fathoms into the lake.

"'I looked at the man with me in the wheelhouse—at Stafford—and hated him! I put my head out at the wheelhouse door and looked back at the lights, at the new, great steamer, following safe and straight at the end of its towline. I thought of my two men upon the tug who had been crushed by clumsiness of those on board that ship; and how my own ships had had a name for never losing a man and that name would be lost now because of the carelessness of Stafford's men! And the sound of the shoal brought the evil thought to me. Suppose I had not happened across his ship; would it have gone upon some reef like this and been lost? I thought that if now the hawser should break, I would be rid of that ship and perhaps of the owner who was on board as well. We could not pick up the tow line again in so close to the reef. The steamer would drift down upon the rocks—'"

PREVENT FLU WITH NEW LEMONADE DRINK

Do you know that science has discovered a new kind of lemonade that helps to keep the flu away?

This new discovery is a common, white powder which scientists call largal. Simply dissolve one tablespoonful of largal to a quart of lemonade and drink two glasses a day—morning and night.

This builds up and strengthens the millions of white corpuscles—the fighting cells. Then when disease germs try to enter the blood, the fighting cells. Then when enough and strong enough to throw off the flu.

Largal is also a wonderful help in relieving colds. Absolutely harmless and can be taken by children as well as adults. Most druggists have powdered largal and the cost is insignificant compared to the good it does. Get some from Bartlett's Drug Store or J. W. Chrispin today and let this new, pleasant drink which science has discovered, protect you from influenza.—Adv.

Man Glued And Feathered.

Sulphur Springs, Texas, March 17.—Five masked men at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, stripped, glued and feathered a man, said to be a jitney driver, on the public square here and then told him to go home to his family and behave himself hereafter. The victim, whose name is withheld, is said to have declared he did not recognize any of his tormentors.

Say Strike Will Be Short.

Washington, March 17.—Although the administration is now convinced that a strike of soft coal miners on April 1 is inevitable, there is a growing belief among high government officials that the tie-up will last for only a short time and that business will not be seriously affected by the walkout, a member of the cabinet who is in close touch with the situation, declared yesterday.

GARIS' BEDTIME STORIES

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SQUIRTY BALL.

[BY HOWARD R. GARIS.]

[Copyright 1922, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.]

"Are you going anywhere special, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one morning, as she saw the bunny rabbit gentleman starting out from the hollow stump bungalow.

"Not special," he answered. "Just to look for an adventure."

"Then perhaps you wouldn't mind leaving this piece of chocolate cake for Mrs. Twistytail, the pig lady," spoke Nurse Jane.

"I'll be right glad to do that," replied the bunny. "Is there enough of it so that Curly and Floppy, the piggie boys, may each have a bit?"

"Oh, no!" laughed Nurse Jane. "I'd have to send over a whole chocolate cake for those piggie boys. And I may do that later. But this slice is for Baby Bunty."

"Oh, Baby Bunty!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily. "Is that little tyke of a rabbit girl staying at the pig lady's house?"

"For a little while, yes," answered Nurse Jane. "She is visiting there and I know that Mrs. Twistytail is so busy that she has no time to make a chocolate cake. Baby Bunty is very fond of it, so I am sending her some."

"Now for some ear nibbles!" cried the Wolf

"I'll take it over," kindly offered Uncle Wiggily.

Soon he was on his way, hopping over the fields and through the woods, carrying the piece of chocolate cake in his pocket, for it was cold, and the rabbit gentleman didn't want the cake to sneeze or freeze.

"Oh, how kind you are!" said Baby Bunty, when she saw Uncle Wiggily and the chocolate cake. "I was just hoping some one would come to see me."

"Yes, Baby Bunty has been a bit lonesome," grunted Mrs. Twistytail. "She wanted me to play tag, but bless her pink nose and yours also, Uncle Wiggily! I have no time to play tag!"

"And I'm afraid my rheumatism pains me too much to allow me to do so," said the bunny, apprehensive like and worried.

"Oh! I don't need any one to play tag now," said Baby Bunty with a laugh. "I'll just have a little party with the piece of chocolate cake Nurse Jane sent me. Look, Uncle Wiggily!" and Baby Bunty, who was always up to some trick, held a rubber ball, with the squirty hole pointed straight at the bunny.

"Oh, don't squeeze it! Don't squirt any water on me!" begged Uncle Wiggily. "If I get damp it will make my rheumatism worse!"

"Don't worry!" laughed Baby Bunty, "there isn't any water in this rubber ball. It's a squirty one all right—but there isn't any water in it now. But maybe I'll put some in later! Only I'm going to eat my chocolate cake now."

So Baby Bunty ate the chocolate cake, and Uncle Wiggily sat and talked with Mrs. Twistytail for a while, until it was time for the bunny to hop along if he wished to have any adventures that day.

As Uncle Wiggily was leaving, Baby Bunty slipped something into his coat pocket.

"What is that?" asked Mr. Longears.

"Oh! It isn't Nurse Jane's cake that I'm sending back," laughed the cute little rabbit girl. "For there isn't any of that left—not even the crumbs. I'm just putting my squirty rubber ball, filled with water, in your pocket, Uncle Wiggily."

"Bless my pink nose! What for?" asked the rabbit. "Won't the water leak out all over me and make my rheumatism worse?"

"Oh, no!" said Baby Bunty. "I put a tiny piece of cork in the hole so the water won't squirt out until you press the ball."

"But why should I want to squirt the water at all?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Well, the Woozie Wolf or the Fuzzy Fox might chase you," spoke Baby Bunty, "and you could drive them off by taking out my squirty ball and spraying water on them."

"Thank you! I'll do it!" said Uncle Wiggily. He took out the ball and looked at it. The tiny piece of cork in the hole stopped the water from leaking out.

With Baby Bunty's water ball in his pocket Uncle Wiggily hopped out again and away from Mrs. Twistytail's house. The weather was getting colder and it seemed about to snow.

Uncle Wiggily was thinking what fun it would be to go coasting, when, all of a sudden, as he was passing a big bush, out popped the Woozie Wolf.

"Now for some ear nibbles!" cried the Wolf.

"Not so!" cried the bunny. "I'll squirt water on you!" Uncle Wiggily pulled out Baby Bunty's ball and squeezed it. But no water squirted out. At first the bunny thought the cork was stuck too tightly in the hole, but, a moment later, he knew what the trouble was.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the Wolf, getting ready to bite the bunny's ears, "you can't squirt water at me—there isn't any in the ball!"

"Yes, there is!" said Uncle Wiggily. "Only it's frozen into ice! And I'll throw this hard round icy ball at you!" So he did hitting the Wolf on the nose.

"Oh, wow!" howled the bad chap, as the frozen ball of water bumped him. "I guess I don't want to nibble any ears today!" and away he ran.

Then Uncle Wiggily took Baby Bunty's frozen, squirty ball home with him to thaw it out, and so the bunny's ears were saved.

The game now known as tennis was formerly called handy. Hence the phrase to handy words or blows.

Women and Medicine.

In Europe, years ago, a woman named Hildegarde wrote a notable book on medicinal plants. In those days the men were too busy bothering about dogmas of religion and medicine, and the study of herbs was thought beneath their notice.

It was the women, however, who mostly conducted the hospitals and cared for the sick and thus they learned much of great value. They let the men fight out the questions of theories.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, prepared almost fifty years ago by a woman, Lydia E. Pinkham, did then, and does now, relieve the ailments peculiar to women. It is a vegetable compound and of great value for this purpose. This is proven day after day, and in your own neighborhood, by grateful women who have used it.—Adv.

BUILDING ONE OF MOST MODERN IN COUNTY

Constructed at Cost of $150,000 Includes Auditorium and Large Gymnasium.

Vernon M. Riegel, state director of education, and W. R. Bliss, assistant state director of education, have been invited to participate in a program which is being arranged for the dedication of the new Prospect High-school building the evening of April 5. Both men are former superintendents of schools at Prospect. Definite plans for the ceremonies are held up pending word from the state educators.

The new high-school building was constructed at a cost of $150,000 and it is one of the most modern educational institutions in the county. Active work was started July 1, 1921 and the building was occupied the last week in February, this year.

The structure includes an auditorium with a seating capacity of 600 and one of the most complete gymnasiums in the county. The dimensions of the gymnasium are sixty by forty-five feet and it contains shower rooms for both boys and girls and 260 individual lockers.

The building proper includes four class rooms, the study hall and six laboratories. The laboratories are for manual training, agriculture, domestic science and home economics, physics, chemistry and printing and journalism. The most modern equipment obtainable has been installed.

The new high-school building was erected on the grounds occupied by the old high school. The old building has been remodelled and is now being used for grade purposes.

PARENT-TEACHER COUNCIL MEETS

Will Stage Play To Secure Funds for Nutrition Work.

A business meeting of the Marion Council of the Parent-Teacher associations was held last night at the Harding High school building. The constitution was adopted and reports were read of the progress of the nutrition work. An address was made by J. C. Emmons, principal of the Silver street school building in which he praised the results being accomplished by the feeding of the undernourished children. In order to carry on the work and to defray the expenses of it the council decided to put on a play, "The Rivals," by the Coffer-Miller players at the auditorium of the Central Junior High school building Friday and Saturday, March 31 and April 1. The annual business meeting and election of officers will be at the next meeting, Thursday, May 18. A nominating committee composed of J. C. Emmons, Mrs. S. B. Nixon and Mrs. Ray Miller, was named at the meeting.

GOOD MORNING

SPRING IS KNOCKING AT YOUR DOOR!

Rather faintly—you say? Well, perhaps—but she is a bit timid and you must open wide your door, and with cordial and persuasive hospitality exert every effort within your power to urge her to come in and inspect your wants.

And what is she going to see when she gets inside your home? Surely you are going to have some new things in mind to make your home more cheerful for her.

Possibly you need a new rug, lace curtains, window shades, new linoleum for your kitchen; in fact, if you stop to think you will think of a number of things you will need. One thing I am certain of and that is a new washing machine.

You can get an

"Easy Vacuum Electric"

washer which will aid you in your house-cleaning. You can wash anything in an "EASY" from carpets to lace curtains, or the daintiest piece of silk you have, without injury to them in the least.

Come in and look over our stock. You will be surprised at the low prices this spring.

BAKER CASE CREATES UNUSUAL SITUATION

Can Not Be Accepted as Prisoner at Mansfield for Life.

ADMITTED AT PRISON TODAY TEMPORARILY

Governor and Attorney General Trying To Solve Problem of What To Do with Boy.

Judge Grant E Mouser when he sentenced Edward Baker, aged fifteen years, to life imprisonment at Mansfield reformatory for second degree murder created a situation unprecedented in the annals of Ohio courts. Today Governor Harry S Davis, Attorney General John G Price and Dr H S MacAveal are trying to solve the problem of what to do with the youth. Under the law he can not be accepted as a prisoner at Mansfield. He was accepted temporarily at that institution this afternoon, on the recommendation of Dr MacAveal, pending a solution of the problem.

First Refused Admittance.

Baker was first taken to Mansfield by Deputy Sheriff Jame Deal last Wednesday. The chief clerk of that institution refused him admittance on the ground that the law only permits acceptance of first offenders between the ages of sixteen and thirty years and then only when then sentence is subject to parole.

Deal brought the boy back to Marion and the problem was referred to Dr MacAveal, who in turn took up the question with the governor and attorney general. It was the first time that a case of this kind had ever been presented and consequently it was decided best not to make a final decision until a thorough investigation had been made.

"I don't know whether or not the boy is the first of his age sentenced for murder in Ohio," T C Jenkins, superintendent of the Mansfield reformatory, declared in a long distance telephone interview this afternoon. "I do know that he is the first one of that age sentenced to Mansfield for murder since I became affiliated with the institution in 1905.

"Chief Clerk Right."

"The chief clerk who refused Baker admittance was perfectly right. Under the law we have no authority to admit the boy. When it developed that a situation with no known parallel had developed I took up the question with Dr MacAveal, who in turn consulted the governor and attorney general. They decided that the best thing to do was to admit the boy temporarily while they investigated further to determine what action should be taken.

"It is one of those situations that arise sometimes when no one knows just what should be done. We accepted the boy here this afternoon. How long we will keep him I can not say. His commitment was only temporary."

FROM OUR READERS

Vice a Destructive Force.

Editor Star:—In a letter under date of February 27, 1922, endorsing the program of an organization for the wider circulation of religious literature, President Harding wrote as follows.

"I strongly feel that every good parent cares for his child's body, that the child may have a normal and healthy life and growth; cares for his child's mind, that the child may take his proper place in a world of thinking people, and such a parent must also train his child's character religiously, that the world may become morally fit. Unless this is done trained bodies and trained minds may simply add to the destructive forces of the world."

May I not call the attention of your readers to the fact that vice appointed Assistant Prohibition Commissioner

Millard I West, formerly deputy commissioner of internal revenue in charge of accounts, who has been appointed assistant Prohibition Commissioner. Mr West will have charge of liquor concentration problems under the amendment to the Treasury appropriations bill signed on February 17th by the President. The general plan of the prohibition unit is to concentrate as far as possible in a limited number of storehouses the distilled spirits now in bonded warehouses scattered throughout the country.

and immorality are foremost among "the destructive forces of the world?" We need not be in doubt as to where to put the vice and immorality labels.

The dictionary and the statutes are sufficiently illuminating. Any individual or organization sanctioning promoting or protecting gambling, Sabbath desecration or licentiousness these outstanding vices in our community life—deserves and should receive the rebukes of all good citizens. What ever menaces the morals of our community is a peculiar peril to the youth, just because youth is peculiarly susceptible to evil influences of all kinds.

Why can not Marion "come clean" in these matters? The wonder to me is that you are not deluged with communications protesting against the apparent immunity of certain forms of vice in our city. Perhaps the deluge is on the way even now. For the sake of our young manhood and womanhood especially, I want to see every destructive force, however sponsored it may be, exposed and pilloried for just condemnation.

If Marion is to be a wholesome place for our children we must make and keep our social and civic life clean. If certain commendable enterprises can not be successfully promoted on the basis of decency and morality, the enterprises had better fail. The price of success is too great to pay, if it be the pollution of the springs of civic and social well being. To keep our civic and social life clean may require "eternal vigilance," but it will be worth it.

DAVIS FEARS COAL STRIKE INEVITABLE

Request for Wage Conference Is Turned Down.

Washington, March 17. Official evidence of the hopelessness of averting a general strike of soft coal miners of April 1, was revealed this afternoon by Secretary of Labor Davis in making public replies which he has received from operators of the central competitive field turning down his request for a joint wage conference in accordance with the agreement of 1920.

The replies which the secretary says out were received from eight operators' associations in Ohio, Illinois Pennsylvania, Indiana and West Virginia and represented practically all of the mines which will be affected by the scheduled walk out.

Demands Intervention.

Washington, March 17. The full force of the government should be brought to bear on the coal operators to compel them to meet the miners and avert a coal strike, declared Representative Bland Republican, Indiana, in a speech in the house today.

"The country is facing the worst crisis of its kind in our history," he said.

One of the things that frets a man most is the difficulty he finds in educating his wife in things he doesn't understand himself.

NO CHANGE IN MARION COUNTY BANK CASE

Service Director Insists Work Can Not Be Resumed.

Service Director E. A. Schultz vigorously denied, this morning, statements that the contemplated change in the front of the Marion County bank will encroach on the sidewalk only about fourteen inches. "I have made exact measurements and the building, if completed under the present plans, would take up just twenty-three inches of sidewalk space," he said. "They are giving a whole lot less than they are taking under the proposed change."

No change in the situation was apparent today. Service Director Schultz insists that work can not be resumed on the building unless plans are changed. A conference between council, bank representatives, the service director and city engineer probably will be arranged in the near future in an effort to solve the problem.

NEARLY 400 AT KIWANIS INTER-CITY MEETING

Event Marks Epoc in History of Marion Organization.

MANSFIELD BIGGEST VISITING DELEGATION

Women Attend for First Time in History of Inter-City Meetings. Clubs Stage Stunts.

The inter-city meeting of Kiwanians of Sub-District No. 6 at Schwinger's hall Thursday night, marked an epoch in the history of the Marion Kiwanis club. With the possible exception of the charter ceremonies the evening of December 30, 1920, the function was the biggest and best ever staged by the Marion organization. Approximately 400 persons were in attendance.

Wives and daughters of the Kiwanians were present for the first time in the history of inter-city meetings. That the Marion Kiwanis club established a precedent which bids fair to become popular is indicated by the fact that the Lima club which is soon to entertain Kiwanis clubs in the district of which it is a member, has adopted the same policy.

Merriment Reigns.

Care was thrown to the winds and merriment reigned supreme. Visiting Kiwanians had come for a good time, Marion Kiwanians had left no stone unturned to gratify their wishes and with good food, rousing songs and snappy speeches scintillating with wit, the entertainment was stamped a success from the time the first guest donned his St Patrick's day hat, a tissue-paper affair trimmed in green, until the program came to a close.

Mansfield had the biggest visiting delegation. What the Bucyrus delegation lacked in size it made up in enthusiasm. Upper Sandusky, Carey, Crestline, Delaware and Galion all were well represented. Perhaps two-thirds of the 400 persons present were representatives of out-of-town clubs and guests.

The hall was beautifully decorated. St Patrick streamers of green and white were interwoven with American flags and Kiwanis emblems. Favors were clay pipes for the Kiwanians and green carnations for the women.

C. W. McClain Welcomes Visitors.

Rev. Jesse Swank opened the program by pronouncing the invocation. John H. Clark, as master of ceremonies, introduced Charles W. McClain, president of the Marion Kiwanis club, who made a brief address of welcome.

The response was made by Frank H Poling, Mansfield, governor of the Ohio district. "In this world humans are constantly craving hospitality," Mr. Poling declared. "I wish to express my appreciation for the way in which the Marion organization has taken care of this inter-city meeting. I also wish to thank all the clubs in the district for their cooperation in making the meeting a success by their presence here tonight in such gratifying numbers."

At the close of Mr. Poling's address Mrs. George G Kleinmaier sang several solos. She has a lovely voice and her contributions were highly appreciated. Mrs. Kleinmaier was compelled to respond to several encores. She was accompanied on the piano by Mrs H. K Mouser.

Dr. J. W. McMurray Speaks.

"Success of the Kiwanis club is due to the high quality of men gathered around its standard," Dr. James W. McMurray, past president of the Marion club, declared. "These inter-city meetings are the same as the local meetings, only on a larger scale," he continued. "We get better acquainted with each other. As we become acquainted we learn to like each other and trust each other.

"There are two things necessary to develop the Kiwanis club into the great organization we want it to be. These are cooperation and sustained enthusiasm." Dr McMurray extended to all present a hearty invitation to come to Marion again July 4 for the centennial celebration.

Walter H. Bodurtha, president of the Delaware club, followed Dr. McMurray on the program. He did not speak. He entertained. Mr. Bodurtha is the happy possessor of a droll sense of humor and he exercised it much to the delight of those present. Many of his stories were new, some were not so new, but all were told in an inimitable style that never failed to bring a hearty laugh.

Loyalty Indispensable.

Albert H. Miller, Toledo, past district governor, was next introduced. "Senator Frank B. Willis at your charter ceremony, expressed my sentiment when he said a good Kiwanian is one who believes his club is the best in the best city of the best state of the best nation in the world," Mr. Miller declared. "Loyalty to your club is indispensable.

"We are having a 'Talk Toledo' week up home. We have learned that our town is nothing more nor less than ourselves. If we knock out town we knock ourselves.

"In America we have built up a great machine for the government of our nation. Few of us realize that we ourselves are that machine. If there is a series of crimes we cry for new laws. If our sidewalks don't please us we run to council and ask for a new ordinance. We have created a great thing. Lest we be like Frankenstein, whose monster finally destroyed him, we must give it a soul.

"We Kiwanians have created a great thing. We must give it a soul. We must be proud of our city and our club. We want members who are proud of their membership. If they are not the doors should always be open for their departure.

"A club is just like a man. A man comes down town in the morning. Several friends meet him and tell him he is looking bad. Soon he decides he is sick. The same is true of a club. If we do nothing but sit around and complain pretty soon we have a sick club."

"You have put on the best inter-city meeting it has ever been my privilege to attend," Mr. Miller declared in closing his address.

Carey Gets Stunt Award.

The meeting was closed with a series of stunts. First award for the best stunt was given to Carey. This club presented a singing quintet in pantomime which made a big hit. Carey introduced a quartet in comedy songs, which were also highly appreciated. Jimmy Smith, the Scotch songster, entertained for the Galion organization and R S Harmount, Delaware, demonstrated his prowess as a whistler. The Marion fun-makers, Ja Vaughan, Zebedee Stout and Harry Body, who put on a "mental telepathy" stunt, were voted the consolation award. Visiting club presidents acted as judges. During the evening music was furnished by Schwinger's orchestra.

Mrs. Esther Mack, the Red Cross nurse, was asked to give a talk on her work and she spoke principally in regard to the milk fund for undernourished children and asked the society to give this summer its assistance. The Red Cross will take care of about 300 undernourished children this summer, including both those of school age and under school age and to do this work successfully the Red Cross will need the assistance of local organizations, Mrs. Mack stated. She also spoke regarding the need of glasses for children whose parents are not able to procure them, and the society voted to buy two pairs at this time.

The next meeting will be held April 6 with Mrs. George Smith, of Crown Point.

Wesley Services Well Attended.

Miss Edna Banning, evangelist at Wesley M. E church, spoke at both the afternoon and evening service at the church Thursday. Both meetings were well attended. The subjects of the afternoon address was "Prayer," and Miss Banning took her text from Luke 11:5, 13.

"The church has forgotten how to pray," Miss Banning said. "We say a few words mechanically and then call it praying. We have not the burden for souls that will bring us to our knees plead till God answers and gives us the things for which we are agonizing. God wants us to ask for for material things as well as for spiritual blessing. If we want God to answer prayer we must be in earnest about it. We must be determined and have a passionate desire for th thing for which we are asking. We must be humble and sincere and have right motives for the thing for which we ask. God will answer when we get in earnest."

The evening service was largely attended. The theme for the sermon was Christ's words, "For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul? Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?" "Man is immortal," Miss Banning said. "He can not cease to be. He must spend eternity in heaven or in hell, just as he chooses. God has done His best to save him but can not until man is willing. Man is making his own bargain. The so-called pleasures of this world are damning multitudes. They are running everywhere to find pleasure but to God. They are dipping into all of the devil's frying pans only to be burned. Then the dance, the theater, pride, modern dress, card playing and gambling of every character, selfishness, and many other things are damning the people. Better take Christ." Many were at the altar at both services.

RADNOR INDEPENDENTS SWAMP MUNIES' FIVE

Take Game at Radnor, Fifty-One to Twenty.

LAWRENCE LEADS RADNOR ATTACK

Clever Defense Keeps Rinehart Cagers Away from Basket. Radnor Piles Up Lead.

The vaunted basketball prowess of the Radnor Independents was demonstrated to the entire satisfaction of Marion devotees of the game Thursday night when the Rinehart Munies were smothered under a fifty-one-to-twenty score in a game played at Radnor. Startling events have been occurring in the realm of basketball in the little Delaware county village this season. Some of the fastest teams in this section of the state have been humbled on the Radnor floor.

The ease with which the Independents disposed of the Munies stamped the team as probably the classiest set of cage stars performing in this section of the state. Any team that subjects the Munies to such an annihilating defeat has to be good.

The Munies never had a chance during the game. Clever defense of the Independents kept the Rinehart cagers away from the basket while the Radnor outfit was piling up a commanding lead. The attack of the Independents was led by Lawrence, who alone was responsible for nearly as many points as were scored by the entire Marion quintet.

The Score.

BASEBALL

Landis Sees Game.

Jacksonville, March 17.—Judge K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, watched yesterday's practice game between Dodger regulars and Yannigans which the regulars won, five to one.

Giants Divided.

San Antonio, March 17.—Members of the world's champion Giants will be divided into two groups tonight, the second team leaving for a three weeks barnstorming trip northward. Jess and Virgil Barnes, Art Neff, Claude Jonnard and Fred Toney are the only regular pitchers Manager McGraw will retain for his first team.

Babe Ruth Slams Ball.

New Orleans, March 17.—Now that Babe Ruth has demonstrated his ability to slam the ball over the walls of Pelican park, local fans today took more interest in succeeding games to be played by the New York Yankees here. The Babe got a homer with the bases loaded in a game with the Pelicans yesterday.

To Pitch for Pirates.

Hot Springs, March 17.—Chief Yellow Horse and John Morrison will attempt to pitch the Pittsburgh Pirates to a victory today in the first of a five-game series with the Boston Red Sox. If these two pitchers are not enough, Earl Hamilton will be put in as well. Barney Dreyfus, owner of the Pittsburgh team, came here today to see how his newly acquired sand-lotters are stacking up.

White Sox Augmented.

Seguin, Tex., March 17.—With the arrival of Eddie Collins and Earl Sheely, the White Sox are able to put their regular infield on the field. Dick Kerr, Eddie Mulligan and Bib Falk are the holdouts who have not reported. Six of the Sox are on the hospital list.

Cincinnati Reds Depart.

Mineral Wells, Tex., March 17.—After taking two in a row from the Dallas Marines, the Cincinnati Reds departed this morning for Fort Worth, where they will play the Cats this afternoon and then journey on to Dallas where they will meet the Cleveland Indians Saturday afternoon. Yesterday's score was four to two and the game was a well played one despite the small sized tornado that swept the field. Couch pitched the entire game for Moran's men.

Another Yannigan Game.

Dallas, Tex., March 17.—Another regular-Yannigan contest is scheduled by Manager Speaker, of the Cleveland Indians, for the afternoon. Riggs Stephenson will work out at third base for the Yannigans and Speaker believes he will fit in there better than at second where he played last year.

WITH THE PUGS

Loughren Wins.

Scranton, Pa., March 17.—Tommy Loughren, of Philadelphia, outpointed Mike McTigue, middleweight champion of Canada, in a ten-round bout here last night.

To Speak at Radnor.

To Build Up Shrunken Tissues—

Strength and Vigor and Increase Your Weight—You Can Now Try Genuine YEAST VITAMINE Tablets At Our Expense.

Women who are scrawny and angular in appearance, who have hollows in the neck or cheeks or sunken, flabby tissues, will find there is nothing like good firm flesh to round out face and figure and give a beautiful appearance.

Men who are thin or emaciated, with weak, flabby muscles, should try adding a few additional pounds of good, firm flesh and see what a remarkable transformation it will quickly make in their appearance. VITAMINES taken before meals mix with your food and act as a powerful nutrition substance. By helping to create millions of new red-blood cells NUXATED IRON unquestionably increases the power of the body to transform lifeless food matter into living cells, flesh, muscle and tissue and gain new strength, energy and endurance.

To prove to you what pure and unadulterated VITAMINE TABLETS will do when taken with NUXATED IRON, it has been arranged with every druggist in this city to give you absolutely free a full-size regular ONE DOLLAR package of genuine YEAST VITAMINE TABLETS with each bottle of NUXATED IRON that you purchase.

Free

IMPORTANT! We recommend that you do not take Vitamines unless you wish your weight increased—if you merely wish greater strength, energy, physical and mental vigor, we recommend that you take Nuxated Iron only.

SENATORS MAKE JOKES ON THE VOLSTEAD LAW

Norris Says Wet London Bad for After-Dinner Speakers.

Washington, March 17.—The prohibition law received another cuffing today on the floor of the senate.

Mention of a speech made by former Governor Lowden, of Illinois, during a recent visit to London, started the "dry" comedy.

"We know that prohibition isn't in effect abroad and that adds a great deal of eloquence to after dinner speakers over there," Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, said.

"The trip abroad even affects prohibitionists," replied Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

The wise use of money is all the advantage there is in having money.—Franklin.

Saviour divine!
—Ray Palmer.

Many a sister spoils her testimony in the church by her tongue in the kitchen.—Anon.

Naught shall affright us on thy goodness leaning,
Low in the heart singeth still her song;
Chastened by pain we learn life's deeper meaning,
And in our weakness Thou dost make us strong.—E. L. Hosmer.

The motto marked upon our foreheads, written upon our doorposts, channeled in the earth, and wafted upon the waves, is and must be, "Labor is honorable and idleness is dishonorable."—Carlyle.

CHICAGO STENOGRAPHER SUES MILLIONAIRE FOR $100,000

Sarah Elizabeth Martin.

Shirley Ogilvie.

Because she says he slurred her character in demanding that she return $45,000 in presents he gave her, pretty Sarah Elizabeth Martin, Chicago stenographer, has filed suit for $100,000 damages against Shirley Ogilvie, financier. That Ogilvie was infatuated with her and wanted her to marry him, she declares, is proven by a sheaf of letters, telegrams and cablegrams she received from the millionaire. He devised "peerless" as a code word, asserts Miss Martin, which meant "all the love of my life and heart and soul and body is yours ten million times."

THE SICK

J. A. Cox, of this city, a patient at the Delaware Springs sanitarium, is reported improved.

Mrs. Edward Harvey, residing three miles south of Prospect, is ill of acute indigestion and complications of flu.

Gertrude, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Powell, of Herman street, is ill.

Miss Flora Mae Carey is ill at her home on east Center street.

Bids for Sewers.

Bids for the construction of sewers on Thompson and Henry streets were opened by the board of control at noon, today, in the council chamber. There were five bidders for the jobs and the contracts will be awarded Wednesday.

Poisoned by Matches.

Cases of poisoning from safety matches seem to be common in Denmark. Dr. C. Rasch reports to the Ugeskrift for Laeger (Copenhagen) on thirteen recent cases in his own practice. The trouble took the form of a severe inflammation of the skin on fingers, neck and face, with badly swollen eyelids. In men it appears below the pocket in which the matches are carried; in women on the fingers with which they light their cigarettes. Dr. Rasch ascribes it to the use of phosphorus sesquisulphide when amorphous phosphorus was not to be had.

Take Views From Airplane.

For the first time an American archaeologist has used aerial photography to obtain bird's-eye views of the oldest man-made topographical features of America, the Indian mounds. David I. Bushnell, Jr., in using such photographs of the mounds near East St. Louis to illustrate a report of the bureau of ethnology of the Smithsonian institution at Washington.

BELGIAN COUNTESS WILL ATTEND "Y" MEETING.

Countess d'Alviella.

Countess Goblet d'Alviella, daughter of Senator d'Alviella, of Belgium, will come to America next month to speak at the convention of the Y. W. C. A., to be held at Hot Springs, Arkansas. When the Germans reached Antwerp during the World war, the countess refused to flee to Havre with King Albert and her father. She remained to do relief work. After three years of hardship in the occupied zone she left Belgium through Switzerland in the guise of a governess to children of a friend.

VICTORY MEDALS FOR THE CHAMPION GIANTS

Fourteen-karat gold victory medals will be hung on the watch fob of each member of the New York Giants who helped win the 1921 world's series. Kenesaw Mountain Landis, dictator of baseball, will award the medallions to the men of McGraw at Dallas, Texas. This is a replica of the medals, designed by Charles J. Dieges, of New York.

KAHN TAKES UP THE FIGHT ON ARMY CUT

Assails the Attempt To Reduce Forces.

Washington, March 17.—Representative Julius Kahn, California, Republican, who stepped into the breach for a Democratic executive, President Wilson, when the draft act was in jeopardy in congress, today took up the fight of President Harding against reducing the army below 140,000 men, its present number.

Wielding the cudgel of the administration against what it terms "attempted usurpation" of executive power, Kahn assailed the house appropriation committee's proposal to cut the army to 115,000 men and 11,000 officers.

SAME RESULT, AND CHEAPER

Somewhat Rough on the Cat, but Five Dollars Is Something These Hard Times.

Expert testimony may be valuable from a scientific point of view, but there are often cheaper ways of establishing a certainty, as the following shows.

An Irish laborer entered a drug store, and drawing a paper bag from his pocket, poured on the counter a number of very sticky and unattractive looking pieces of candy.

"Can you examine this candy?" he asked.

"It looks queer. What's the matter with it?" asked the druggist.

"Pizen, Oi'm thinkin'. Did ye iver see such stuff? Dinnis McGuire give thim to me b'y, an' Dinnis is no frind of moine."

"Well, I can make an analysis."

"All right. Oi'll come in tomorrow on me way from worrk."

The Irishman had reached the door, but he suddenly stopped with his hand on the latch.

"And how much will that analysis cost me?" he inquired.

"Five dollars," was the answer.

The man walked over to the counter and swept the candy into the bag, which he replaced in his pocket.

"Niver moind," he said. "Oi'll feed wan to the cat."—Philadelphia Ledger.

S. S. S. Fills Out Hollow Cheeks, Thin Limbs!

Men and women—whether you will ever build yourself up to your normal, just-right weight depends on the number of blood cells in your blood. That's all there is to it. It's a scientific fact. If your blood cell factory isn't working right, you will be run down, thin, your blood will be in disorder, and perhaps your face will be broken out with pimples, blackheads and eruptions. S. S. S. keeps your blood cell factory working full time. It helps build new blood cells. That's why S. S. S. builds up thin, run-down people, it puts firm flesh on your bones, it rounds out your face, arms, neck, limbs, the whole body. It puts the "pink" in your cheeks. It takes the hollowness from the eyes and it fools Father Time by smoothing out wrinkles in men and women by "plumping" them up. S. S. S. is a remarkable blood purifier. While you are getting plump, your skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, acne, rheumatism, rash, itch, blotches are being removed. The medicinal ingredients of S. S. S. are guaranteed purely vegetable. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

RACE MEN SURPRISE HENRY BAUSINGER

Association Has Meeting Following Dinner.

The members of the Marion Racing association surprised Henry Bausinger at his cafe on south Main street, Thursday evening, it being the anniversary of his birth. There were about twenty present including several invited guests, and after a dinner the association held a business meeting.

C. A. Klunk, president of the association, called the meeting to order and six applications for membership were accepted. L. L. Alber was accepted to membership to complete the roster of the association which is limited to twenty-five members.

E. W. Boyer, secretary of the association, made a report on the coming race meeting. Mr. Boyer referred to Marion as the "Sulky City," stating that Marion was the leading city in the country in this line of manufacturing. He gave an outline of the stake races for the meeting and the special awards for these events. Mr. Boyer also announced that a number of improvements were being planned for the grounds, among these being a cinder track around the outside of the south end of the race track so that people could travel to and from the barns without crossing the track.

The secretary reported that he had received communications from several good starting judges and left the selection of one up to the members. He also received letters from Chester Stands, of Columbus, and Joseph McGraw, of Arden, Pennsylvania, both of whom are desirous of serving as presiding judge. Mr. Boyer stated that he had received word from some of the owners of the best stables in the country and that the indications were Marion would have the best meeting ever held here. Talks were made by the president, Mayor George W. Neely, William G. Minshall and several of the invited guests. The association adjourned to meet April 4, at which time several important matters in connection with the coming meeting will be taken up.

The British chancellor of exchequer wants the United States to take over one-third of the German indemnity burden and pay it over to the allies. There is, seemingly, no limit to the generosity of some people with other people's money.

It's pretty close to what the sportingly inclined would denominate a lead-pipe cinch that the next Arbuckle trial will not draw more than a paragraph on an inside back page.

An Argentine expedition is being fitted out to capture the old plesiosaurus supposed to be holding out in a lake down in Patagonia and bring it back to civilized territory. What would anybody do with it anyway? As a backyard pet, an animal with such a neck as it is said to possess would cause more havoc with neighbors' gardens than chickens.

OUR ATTITUDE CONSISTENT.

Carpers profess to find in Secretary Hughes' communication to the Italian ambassador a note of selfishness unworthy of America, and unreasonable besides. They surmise that governments which have given de facto recognition to the Russian soviet will not be inclined to share any spoils with a country that avoids responsibility and risk, and that the Russians will resent an attempt to dictate the kind of government they shall choose and with whom they shall do business. This is unwarranted.

"This government," says Secretary Hughes, "anxious to do all in its power to promote the welfare of the Russian people, perceives that economic restoration can not be secured until adequate action is taken on the part of those chiefly responsible for Russia's economic disorders. It is also the view of this government that nothing should be done looking to the obtaining of economic advantages in Russia which would impair the just opportunities of others, but that the resources of the Russian people should be free from such exploitation and that fair and equal opportunity in their interest, as well as in the interest of all the powers, should be preserved."

Mr. Hughes is not concerned about securing opportunity for Americans to exploit the Russians on any terms. He is concerned lest ambitious governments and peoples so tie Russia to themselves that the Russians will not have equal opportunity in the world markets and so will be hampered in reestablishing themselves economically. Americans might be at a serious disadvantage were some other country or group of countries to secure exclusive privileges in Russia, but the greater injury would be done the Russians who would be deprived of the right of buying and selling where the greater advantage would accrue to themselves.

Mr. Hughes' just contention is in the interest of the Russians. The principle he advances is that of the "open door" as he favors its adoption with respect to Russia from the same worthy motives that have impelled Americans to favor the "open door" in China. If the principle of special interests in Russia is admitted there will grow up the same condition menacing world peace that was created in China. Mr. Hughes' attitude with respect to Russia is consistent with the American policy with respect to China.

A headline tells us that a "Moral Reform Wave Strikes Mexico." And yet we are told the leopard can not change its spots.

A British visitor says talk of a trip to the moon is no longer absurd. But what's the use since we are assured there's no moisture there? The hunt, these days, is for oases.

It is not impossible that the irreconcilables may be forced to recognize the fact that the public can not become reconciled to their position on the four-power treaty.

Out in Indianapolis, Isaiah Moore, thirty-two years old, is under arrest charged with having married eleven women. Moore was nabbed as he was about to take one more. He doesn't hold the marrying record, but it must be admitted that he was getting close to the top notch.

QUIT SCHOOL TOO EARLY.

A statement made at the National Education association convention in Chicago recently to the effect that only forty per cent. of the school children in this country complete the eight grades of common schools, and only eight per cent. complete the high school, will no doubt surprise a great many citizens.

It is so easy and so inevitable to sink deeper and deeper into the conviction that all is well with the schools in this country, that nothing short of a dismal fact of this kind can get the American out of this self-assurance. The results of the army tests given out several years ago should have dispelled this attitude of indifference toward our educational problems, but for many it was a satisfactory explanation to say that a good many of the men examined were foreigners who had spent little time in American schools.

The educator's assertion at the N. E. A. convention admits of no such simple explanation, however. Here we are dealing, not as we did in the case of the army tests, with an effect merely; here we are dealing with a more immediate cause of the poor showing made by those who were examined. If we are as educators have told us, a nation of six graders, the cause for this shortcoming is to be sought in nothing else but the fact that perhaps as many as fifty per cent. of our boys and girls do not go beyond the sixth grade.

That is a plain and unmistakable fact, and the conclusion to be drawn from it is obvious. Americans have it in their power to make this a nation of eighth-graders or high school graduates, and if we think this desirable, then it would be necessary first of all to find out the reason why only forty per cent. of American children complete the eighth grade. The reasons are no doubt to be found by a little searching; in many communities they already have been found, and in justice to such communities it ought to be said that in many cases the conditions which make for insufficient education already have been removed.

Unfavorable home conditions, inadequate school facilities, poor teaching, lax enforcement of compulsory educational ideals—these are among the contributing factors that send our school children out into the world without even the minimum eighth grade schooling. The situation which faces us is a serious one, but it can be met successfully if we truly resolve to improve upon it.

IF IT WERE NOT FOR THE OLD LADY—

LIFE'S VAUDEVILLE.

[By Dr. James Ball Naylor.]

LOVE.

Love is the grand passion.

It alone speaks the universal language.

It is common to all zones and climes; to all peoples, tribes and clans.

It reckons not with time nor place.

The lovers of Babylon loved—as the lovers of Boston love.

The Eskimo loves as the Patagonian loves.

The savage black man loves as the cultured white man loves.

Love!

Never an artist—but has mixed his pigments to paint the features of his beloved.

Never a sculptor—but has kneaded his clay to mould or model the form of his adored.

Never a philosopher—but has dreamed of love.

Never a novelist—but has written of love.

Never a poet—but has sung of love.

Shakespeare said:

"Sweet, good night!
The bud of love, by summer's ripening breath,
May prove a beauteous flower when next we meet."

Young penned:

"Art thou not dearer to my eyes than light?
Dost thou not circulate through all my veins?
Mingle with life, and form my very soul?"

Bayard Taylor sang rapturously:

"I love thee, I love but thee,
With a love that shall not die
Till the sun grows cold,
And the stars are old—
And the leaves of the Judgment Book unfold!"

Love, true love, isn't merely a physical passion; it's a spiritual affection.

It is strong and tender.

It may be killed; but it is hard to kill.

Whether it be the love of youth and maiden, the love of husband and wife, or the love of parents for children or children for parents—true love, real love, has the habit of persisting.

Many times, too, the love of friend for friend is just as strong and worthy.

Love comes into the world with us; goes down to the grave with us.

It is no respecter of persons.

It reckons neither with circumstances nor conditions.

It does not fly out at the window when want comes in at the door.

The flame of passion dies down with the passing years and coming frosts of age; but the embers of true love continue to glow and sparkle.

As the final shadows begin to gather, and the evening air of life begins to grow chill, may we all be permitted to warm our hands and our hearts over the red embers of real love!

JUBILEE'S PARDNER

by Judd Mortimer Lewis

Illustrations by Edwins

Jubilee is not learning his hand springs so very good He can't get the idea that he must do them when he sees me do them and all he does is to try to sneak under the house when he sees me start to do them and then I have to pull him out and turn him over by hand I am getting to do mine a lot better from doing them every morning I can do a handspring now with one hand in my pocket

Who I was milking this morning which was a nice warm day the Lost Bag of Tripe come crawling in through the manure hole and sot down where he could look out of the hole and see up the alley, and then he asted me what I thought of Skunk for giving him away to the teacher and I said I did not think Skunk meant to do it and what did the teacher do to him and he said that she made out like she was reading a book and then all at once she looked up and told him to go over to the chalk box and get her a piece of chalk and he went over and poked his hand in for some chalk and the rat trap was in there and he said it felt like a wild animal had bit his hand off and then she wiped his tears and told him he might go

Then he said he was going to paist Skunk dizzy for giving him away and then pretty soon he said he had to go to the store for his mother before school and he would be gone and just after he was Skunk and Peewits come crawling through the manure hole and Skunk was talking about his rat trap and he said he was going to knock the Lost Bag of Tripe a paist that would spin him like a top for losing his rat trap and when I told him what had happened to the Lost Bag the thought that was pretty good

When we got to sch ol there was the Lost Bag of Tripe and he had a paper bag that looked like it was full of something and he grinned at Skunk and asted him if he wanted an apple and we all thought he wanted to get good with him and Skunk said he didn't care and he reached in the bag and then he gave a yell and at the same time the Lost Bag of Tripe paisted him right in the nose But he sot down and the Lost Bag of Tripe ran in the school house and Skunk kept hollering and he shook the bag loose and the rat

And he reached in the bag and then he gave a yell and at the same time the Lost Bag of Tripe paisted him so hard on the nose that he sot down.

trap was on his hand

A bunch of kids can get a lot of fun out of a rat trap all except the kids that get caught We tried to get Skunk and the Lost Bag of Tripe to fight at recess but they have got each others goats They both said their hands are too sore

When school let out Jubilee saw a cat and chased it and we all went with him so that he would not have to come back alone He did not catch it and by the time we got done talking about it it was time to go home and milk and after supper my father said that the best place for a little boy after dark was in bed I guess I know enough to take a hint, so I went

How Soon Should Baby Chicks Be Fed?

Authorities Say— Two Days After Hatching

Through scientific observations, it is now known that shortly before hatching, the chick takes into its body the yolk of the egg, and is thus provided by nature with food for at least 36 hours and up to 72 hours.

At the end of 48 hours, sprinkle a little Vitality Chick Mash on a board or in a saucer. Let them eat sparingly but frequently, say five times daily. Vitality Chick Mash is easily digested and will give chicks a good start. Its Dried Buttermilk content is a great bowel regulator and tissue builder.

The second or third day, chicks should be strong enough to scratch and a little Vitality Chick Scratch should be scattered over the top of the litter twice daily.

Your chicks will make fast, healthy growth on this ration because it is high in protein that is easily converted into bone, muscle and feathers. It contains the elements which most poultry authorities agree make an economical balanced ration, and produce vigorous pullets that lay early.

Vitality Chick Mash contains dried buttermilk, fine ground meat scraps and bone meal, besides the very best of high protein cereals, carefully prepared.

Vitality Chick Scratch is made from clean, cracked wheat, sifted cracked corn, cracked Kafir corn, millet seed and steel-cut oats, with or without grit.

LIVING COSTS COMING DOWN

Retail Cost of Food Is One Per Cent. Lower.

WHOLESALE PRICES SHOW UPWARD TREND

Sixteen Articles Increase in Price During the Month, Most Important Being Onions.

Washington, March 17. — The high cost of living is coming down very slowly. The retail cost of food was three-tenths of one per cent. lower in February than it was in January, according to figures made public today by the department of labor.

Wholesale Prices Move Up.

While the retail figures were reaching this point wholesale prices showed a "distinct upward trend," according to the department's announcement which showed that there was a gain of two per cent. over the level of January. The increase was most pronounced among farm products and foodstuffs.

Some of the more pronounced decreases in retail food prices in February were evaporated milk, fresh milk, oleomargarine, strictly fresh eggs, bread and some canned foods.

Sixteen articles increased in price during the month, the most important being onions.

During the month from January 15 to February 15, the average family expenditure for food decreased in twenty-eight cities, as follows:

Reports from Cities.

Kansas City, four per cent.

Scranton, two per cent.

Chicago, Columbus, Dallas, Houston, New Haven, New Orleans, Norfolk, Peoria, Pittsburgh, Portland, Maine; Providence, Rochester, Savannah and Springfield, Illinois, one per cent.

In Atlanta, Birmingham, Boston, Bridgeport, Cincinnati, Jacksonville, Louisville, Mobile and New York, there was a decrease of less than five-tenths of one per cent.

In twenty-two cities, there were the following increases.

Seattle, three per cent.

Memphis, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Salt Lake City, two per cent.

Baltimore, Buffalo, Butte, Denver, Indianapolis, Los Angeles, Milwaukee, Omaha, Portland, Oregon; St. Louis, Washington, one per cent.

In Cleveland, Detroit, Newark, Philadelphia, Richmond and San Francisco, there was an increase of less than five-tenths of one per cent.

PUTS HANDAG IN MAIL BOX, KEEPS PACKAGE

Mail Carrier Solves Problem of Righting Error.

George Moore, clerk in an east Center street business house, is authority for a story that is reminiscent of the old tales which related how the absent-minded railroad passengers would throw tickets out of the window of the coach and keep a banana peel in their hands.

Mr. Moore was standing in the doorway of the store when he saw a woman carrying a handbag and a package, go to a mail box, deposit the handbag in the mail box and start away. She got only a few feet from the box when she noticed what she had done, very much puzzled as to how to rectify the error.

Noticing her worried look, a pedestrian inquired the trouble and when informed what had happened he told the woman not to worry. "Your handbag is in the safest place in the world," he told her, "it is in Uncle Sam's custody." She was told that a mail carrier soon would collect the mail at that box and she could identify her property and make the exchange. Her daughter arrived and kept her company until the mail man arrived, the handbag identified and the error corrected.

BUDGET PROGRAM CUTS GOVERNMENT COSTS

Big Decreases Are Effected by President's Plan.

Washington, March 17.—The government's operating expenses were reduced $49,041,000 in February, in economies effected by the president's budget program, the treasury department announced today.

War department expenditures declined from $34,303,000 in January to $30,125,000 in February. Treasury expenses dropped from $22,578,000 to $12,898,000. Navy expenses dropped from $39,941,000 to $32,288,000.

Many other departments and independent agencies showed substantial reductions in expenditures.

The treasury's funding operations by which the short-dated debt is to be rapidly liquidated, showed expenditures on account of the public debt amounting to $522,000,000. This total included $264,000,000 for the redemption of treasury certificates of indebtedness and $243,000,000 for the retirement of Victory notes.

Even a fat man may be successful at dodging an issue.

CONSTRUCTION WORK IS ON INCREASE

Reports Show Decrease in the Number of Idle.

Washington, March 17. — Summarizing reports from all parts of the country, Colonel Arthur Woods, chairman of the commerce department's permanent committee on unemployment, declared today that enforced idleness was decreasing in the United States and the construction projects now being planned would furnish jobs for many more men within the next few months.

Among the favorable reports cited by Colonel Wood today were:

Albany, New York, one thousand new houses being built.

Baltimore, building operations increased 118 per cent, while total for entire country is only forty-nine per cent.

HIGHWAY PROGRAM WILL FUNISH JOBS

Plans Now Call for 750 Miles of Work.

Columbus, March 17.—Unemployment in Ohio will be materially relieved by the state's highway construction program this year, in the opinion of Highway Director Herrick. The highway department is now bending every effort to award by May 1 all contracts for 1922 road construction and repair work, to insure an early completion this year of every project started.

Plans for the year's construction call for approximately 750 miles of work, according to Herrick. Of the total mileage planned by the department, contracts have already been awarded for 125¼ miles. Contractors will start on these jobs as soon as the weather permits.

J. C. Bloomer, chief engineer for the highway department, estimates that this year's program will give employment to between 35,000 and 40,000 men at least. He figures that at least 50 men will be employed for each mile of work.

Income Tax Yield Shows Slump.

New York, March 17.—The fertile financial field of New York will yield about half as much of a money crop to the income tax harvesters this year as in 1921, it was figured by Frank K. Bowers, internal revenue collector. The first 15 days of March brought $42,153,563.05 into the office, he reported, compared with $73,477,475.75 during the corresponding period a year ago. The collector said he expected the 1922 total would not exceed $60,000,000. Last year it reached $118,000,000.

Bonus For New York Veterans.

Albany, N. Y., March 17.—By unanimous vote the assembly has adopted the Barnes bill, proposing an amendment to the constitution to empower the legislature to borrow not to exceed $45,000,000 for the payment by the state of bonuses to residents of the state who served in the world war. The money would be raised by a bond issue.

Diva to Sue For Divorce.

St. Louis, March 17.—Madame Margaret Matzenauer, grand opera singer, denied statements of her chauffeur husband, Floyd Glotzbach, that he had deserted her, and emphasized that she "threw him out of my New York apartment Jan. 26." The diva asserted she has pending in New York proceedings for absolute divorce on the alleged grounds of infidelity.

Shoots Widow, Child and Self.

Philadelphia, March 17.—Angered because Mrs. Nettie Shriner, 31, a widow, refused to marry him, George Fulmer, 51, shot and seriously wounded her and her 2-year-old son and then fired a bullet into his own brain, according to the police. The three are in the same hospital here. The condition of Mrs. Shriner and Fulmer is said to be serious.

Judge Florence Allen Issues Call to Women

First Woman Jurist to sit in a Court of Common Jurisdiction

The success or failure of the present generation depends on the intelligence of the voting woman, according to Judge Florence E. Allen of Cleveland, Ohio. Judge Allen will be one of the principal speakers at the national convention of the Young Women's Christian Association to be held in Hot Springs, Arkansas, April 20th to 27th.

"Women must help extend the American ideal of peace to all nations," Judge Allen recently declared. "Whether they realize it now or not, it is upon the shoulders of the voting woman that the most direct responsibility must rest in this question of international and domestic peace in the coming world order. Women must act as well as think and plan."

BABY GIRLS SAFER IN AFRICA THAN ON BRODWAY, WIFE OF GORILLA HUNTER DECLARES

Alice Bradley in African jungle

Alice with parents at pier

Her baby girl would be "safer in African jungles than among the automobiles of Broadway," declares Mrs. Herbert Bradley, of Chicago, who, with her husband, her six-year-old daughter, Alice, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Akeley, has just returned from a gorilla-hunting trip in the Belgian Congo region. Skins of many wild beasts, killed by members of the party, were brought back. Here you see a group of natives carrying little Miss Bradley. The lower picture shows the young lady with her parents and friends.

SLAYER DIES ON GALLOWS

Boyish Double Murderer Pays Penalty.

PRESIDENT REFUSES TO THWART JUSTICE

Earlier Plea Is Made to Justice McCoy, of the District Supreme Court.

Washington, March 17. — John McHenry, the boyish murderer, who was given a week's time to "prepare his soul for death," was hanged today within sight of the capitol dome.

McHenry went to his death at the end of a hangman's nooso smiling and unafraid. He mounted the scaffold unaided, faced the west and plunged into eternity without opening his lips.

The execution, staged under the auspices of the federal government, came only after President Harding had refused to intervene. McHenry was the self-confessed murderer of a Washington garage owner and a detective sergeant.

The boy only weighed slightly over 100 pounds and the hempen rope was new and kinky despite the fact that it had been tested out and stretched yesterday by means of a 200 pound iron slab.

There was scarcely any snap at all as the light body reached the bottom of its short plunge. It sagged rather than snapped and the burly jailor who stood alongside shook it lightly two or three times as though to straighten out the kinks that were too tough for the frail thing that dangled so grotesquely at the end.

After shaking the rope a few times, the same burly jailor drew a huge curtain across the front of the scaffold. The spectators filed silently out, while back behind the curtain the attendants cut down the dangling burden and bore it away. The spectacle was over, and the "kid," as he was called in the jail, was gone.

Meditates on Religion.

McHenry spent his last week meditating on "this religion business." He couldn't understand he said, why "they killed Jesus because he was good and kill me because I am bad."

An hour before he started on his walk to the scaffold, however, he told his spiritual advisers that it was "all right."

"I don't blame anybody," he said without any trace of fear or sorrow.

"I'm ready to go. And I think I'm going to this heaven you talk about too. I think I've got it fixed at last."

And a short time later he told his guards:

"The priests have fixed it all up for me."

McHenry was hanged only after every effort had been made to save his life. Not half an hour before he went to the scaffold, Justice McCoy, of the district supreme court, denied him another reprieve. A short time earlier, President Harding, now in Florida, had again declined to intercede with executive clemency.

Former Army Officer Guilty.

Talbottom, Ga., March 17.—Major Lee H. Coart, former army officer, was today found guilty of the murder of A. B. McNice, former superintendent of county schools. The jury put in a recommendation for mercy. This carries with it a sentence of life imprisonment. Two members of Major Coart's family fainted in the court-room when the verdict was read.

To Inspect Muscle Shoals.

Washington, March 17.—The senate agriculture committee will leave the capital Saturday, March 25, on an inspection tour of the government nitrate project at Muscle Shoals, Alabama, it was announced today. The trip will cover five days and will include personal inspection of all parts of the project. About twenty senators will be included in the party.

On the principle that a power vehicle can haul more than it can carry heavy duty motor trucks are being built in both England and France with short tractor units and long, detachable bodies.

REPRIEVE REFUSED TO WIFE MURDERER

Governor Davis Will Not Grant Stay.

Columbus, March 17.—Governor Davis refused to grant a 30-day reprieve to Edward Moffett, Akron wife slayer, requested by Dr. H. S. MacAyeal, director of public welfare. Moffet is to be electrocuted March 24.

Director MacAyeal ordered an examination made of the prisoner by Dr. William H. Pritchard, superintendent of the Columbus state hospital, and Dr. Edmund M. Baehr of the department of juvenile research. The alienists, in written reports to Dr. MacAyeal, held that the prisoner is insane.

Dr. MacAyeal asked that a stay be granted and that Moffett be transferred to the Lima state hospital for the criminal insane for observation for 30 days. Governor Davis declared, in refusing the request, that it would be bad precedent to make, and said that if once granted every man under death sentence might ask and reasonably expect the same kind of treatment.

WILLIS DENIES PACT IS AN ALLIANCE

Senate Plunged into Another Lively Debate.

Washington, March 17.—The disputed question of whether the four-power Pacific treaty provides for an offensive and defensive alliance between the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan, plunged the senate today into another lively debate on the pact.

Senator Willis, Republican, of Ohio, in urging ratification in a speech in which he contended that the treaty does not provide for any kind of an alliance was frequently interrupted by a continued crossfire of inquiries from other senators who held that the treaty would involve the United States in a "quadruple alliance."

Yet most women prefer to become wives rather than angels.

A little ready money is a great help toward the simple life.

OFFICIALS TO HAVE BILLS CUT

Traveling Expenses Reduced by Director Davis.

NEW RULES REQUIRE AN ORDER FOR TRAVEL

Taxicab Hire Allowed Only When Other Means of Transportation Are Not Available.

Columbus, March 17.—To reduce cost to the state of traveling expenses of officials, a set of rigid rules governing such expenditures was put into effect today by Finance Director Davis at the instance of Governor Davis, it was announced.

The new rules require issuance of a travel order by the head of a department before any expense will be honored, it was stated.

Riding in parlor cars is allowed at state expense, and where sleeping cars are used, Pullman receipts must be attached to expense accounts. Receipts, also, are required for all hotel and other bills exceeding $1.00.

Taxicab hire will be allowed only where other means of transportation are not available or can not be used advantageously in the state's interests, it is decreed.

To employes using their own automobiles, an allowance not exceeding 6½ cents a mile, while on state business, but not to exceed $25 a month is fixed. Trip charges in all cases must be itemized.

IRELAND'S PATRON SAINT BEING HONORED

St. Patrick's Day Brings Display of Green.

Ireland's patron saint, St. Patrick, is being honored today by every son and daughter who can boast of ancestry harking back to the old sod and his memory is kept green by the wearing of a sprig of Shamrock, Tara's harp or a bit of green ribbon.

March 17 is observed everywhere as the anniversary of the death of St. Patrick. He died at Saul, Downpatrick, Ireland, in 493. His body was inferred at the chieftan's fort two miles from Saul and in aftertimes there was built on this spot the cathedral of Downs.

The parochial mass at St. Mary's church this morning was celebrated in honor of St. Patrick and the pupils of the parochial school were given a free day in honor of the day. St. Mary's Sewing circle will celebrate with a social this evening at the Knights of Columbus hall, while the Knights of Columbus will hold a dance in Schwinger's annex.

IRISH RAISE GLAD PAEANS

New York Stages the Greatest of Celebrations.

FEATURE OF DAY IS A MONSTER PARADE

Fighting Sixty-Ninth Given Place of Honor—Other Ex-Service Men Take Part.

New York, March 17.—With fair, cold weather prevailing, the friends of Ireland in New York today staged the greatest St. Patrick's day celebration in the history of the city. The fact that the Irish aspirations for freedom is an accomplished fact for the first St. Patrick's day in seven centuries, increased the rejoicing to unbounded limits.

The feature of the day was a monster parade, although this was not scheduled to start until the middle of the afternoon. The place of honor in the parade was given to the old sixty-ninth regiment—one hundred and sixty-fifth infantry.

Colonel John J. Phelan, commanding the regiment, said that it would be fully equipped as a fighting unit of the United States army with machine guns, rifles and bayonets.

Arrangements were made for more than thirty brass bands and the thousands of onlookers were assured of plenty of good Irish music such as the "Wearing of the Green" and "Garry Gown."

Military Affair.

It was planned to make the parade chiefly a military affair. The other military organizations invited to participate were the Rainbow division of World war veterans and the Spanish-American war veterans, the United American War Veterans, the West Point military academy and the Xavier high school regiment.

Justice Gavegan of the supreme court, was appointed grand marshal. The civilian organizations include the Knights of the Blessed Sacrament, St. Jerome Boy scouts, De La Salle institute and Ancient Order of Hibernians.

People began gathering along the line of march at noon, despite the chilly weather. The route was up Fifth avenue from 24th to 110th street.

When the Irishmen of the fourteenth assembly district met for the parade, they first took up a collection for relief of the starving Jews in Europe. About $655 was raised.

Religious features of the day included a solemn pontifical mass in St. Patrick's cathedral, Archbishop Hayes celebrating at 11 o'clock. The sixty-ninth regiment attended in a body. This evening there will be a number of dinners and other social affairs, chief of them being the annual gathering of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick and St. Patrick's society of Brooklyn.

All ecclesiastical restrictions including the Lenten feast and abtenance was lifted for the day.

May Bar Anti-Red Leader.

Washington, March 17. — The opinion that Gregory Semenoff Ataman, of the Russian Cossacks, and alleged "butcher of the Far East," would be denied admission to the United States by the board of inquiry which will act upon his case at Vancouver, British Columbia, was expressed today by officials of the immigration service. Although the state department has declared that it has no objections to Semenoff's admission to this country, it was stated that the famous anti-Bolshevik general has no diplomatic standing and that he will be looked upon in the same light as any Russian immigrant.

ASHURST DEFENDS IRISH FROM ATTACK

Half of Washington's Army Was Irish, He Says.

Washington, March 17.—Senators paused in the consideration of the four-power pact yesterday to say a few kind words about the Irish way of rebuttal to Senator John Sharp Williams' remarks yesterday.

Senator Ashurst of Arizona charged that Senator Williams' customary historical accuracy had wandered far astray when he asserted that little of the fighting of the American side in the Revolutionary war was done by Irish. He produced musty documents from the innermost recesses of the congressional library to prove that the Continental army contained more Irish than any other nationality.

Quotes from Testimony.

He quoted from the testimony of Joseph Galloway, Tory speaker of the Pennsylvania house of representatives for twelve years preceding the revolution, to the effect that one-half the Continental army was Irish.

Galloway's testimony was given before a committee appointed by the British parliament to investigate the conduct of the American war in 1779.

Mr. Ashurst read a long list of generals and famous warriors, too long to repeat, who were born in Ireland or were of Irish descent. He proceeded then to extoll Irish civilization.

"Why, Mr. President," said Senator Ashurst, "when Senator Williams' ancestors in Wales and my ancestors in Lancaster were still eating raw meat, Ireland had already developed a high state of civilization."
